Productive forests full of NTFPs play an immense role in uplifting communities economically, sustaining livelihoods and contributing to India's growing green economy. This flagship event of the Madhya Pradesh Forest Department celebrates India's herbal wealth and the power of Non Timber Forest Produce (NTFP) in building greener economies and healthier communities. Explore an exciting showcase of herbal products, forest honey, therapeutic oils, medicinal plants, and value-added forest produce — all sourced sustainably from the heart of MP's forests.

Because when forests prosper...
and happiness grows.

The event is jointly organized by the Madhya Pradesh Forest Department and the Madhya Pradesh State Minor Forest Produce (Trade & Development) Co-operative Federation Ltd. The lead organizer, MP MFP Federation, serves as the apex body representing its connection with four million forest produce collectors across the state, who rely on the sustainable harvest and trade of Minor Forest

The Federation plays a pivotal role in promoting the collection, processing, marketing and trade of Non Timber Forest Produce (NTFP), including Medicinal and Aromatic Plants (MAPs). The 1069 Primary Cooperative Societies and 209 Van Dhan Vikas Kendras (VDVKs) operating under 60 District Unions are actively engaged in the primary collection of NTFPs, as well as in value addition through processing and marketing initiatives.

At the core of these efforts is the Minor Forest Produce Processing and Research Centre (MFP-PARC), located in the heart of Bhopal. MFP-PARC specializes in the production of herbal medicines, therapeutic oils, proprietary herbal formulations, and forest honey, all marketed under the trusted brand "Vindhya Herbals". The raw materials used in these products are primarily sourced from members from District Unions, thereby ensuring sustainable resource utilization while creating livelihood opportunities for millions of forest-dependent communities across the state.

The International herbal Fair is an annual event organized to showcase and promote skills, knowledge sharing, innovations, business and marketing opportunities while celebrating the rich cultural diversity of Madhya Pradesh. Visitors will experience a vibrant showcase of herbal products, medicinal plants, traditional remedies, tribal cuisines, cultural performances, and live demonstrations.
